HUMAN RELATIONS

WHEREAS, Human relations is the interaction of one individual with another: the relationship between parent and child, students and teacher, youth and adult; and

WHEREAS, Human relations also include relationships of various groups: social, political, racial, the advantaged and disadvantaged; and

WHEREAS, Lack of understanding of each other leads to many human ills, such as: disruption of family life, racial tension, a gap in youth-adult understanding, failure of youth in school, and an alarming increase of delinquency; and

WHEREAS, The illness of human relations leads to tragic waste of human life; be it therefore

RESOLVED, That PTAs in Colorado set up programs and projects to further the understandings among the peoples of this state including:

--Negroes, Indians, and members of other racial minorities,

--young people who can articulate their point of view,

--the advantaged and disadvantaged so that they may discover that often they are the same; and be it further

RESOLVED, That PTA focus on bettering human relations in Colorado so that Colorado children can have a warmer, more understanding and creative climate in which to grow to be the most mature generation of adults that has ever lived.

1971
Retired 1987; replaced by new resolution 1987